Arthur's Article

Year 4 Grammar: Determiners

Arthur has written an article for the school newspaper. Within the article, he has used lots of definite and indefinite articles. These are determiners that come before the noun and tells us if the noun is general (a or an) or specific (the). Read and spot the articles in Arthur's article by underlining each one.

This week, at Greenwood Primary, we held the annual Christmas Fair. It was an exciting event with lots of the local parents and children attending. The fair took place after school with doors opening at 4.00pm. It was a wet and windy evening but we had a big turnout. The event took place in the school hall where we had food stalls, a café, an exciting bouncy castle and a cake stall. In the corner, there was even an old, traditional grotto with the big man himself sat inside... Father Christmas! All the people that attended said that they had an amazing time and they enjoyed the great atmosphere. It was a fantastic and successful event and, above all, we raised a staggering £670 towards building the new computer suite.

Determiner Count: Read the article above again and count how many times Arthur used an indefinite article and how many times he used a definite article.

A Parent's Guide to Determiners

In the Year 4 National Curriculum, children are introduced to the term determiner. It is important that your child learns this terminology and is able to identify determiners in sentences. This booklet will help to reinforce the learning and understanding of determiners.

Determiners

A determiner is a word that introduces a noun such as a, an, every, three, many and those. The determiner 'the' is also known as the definite article and the determiners 'a' and 'an' are also known as the indefinite article.

Determiners can be split into several categories depending on their usage. These include: possessive determiners, interrogative determiners, demonstrative determiners and quantifiers.

Possessive determiners - come before a noun to indicate ownership, such as:

My leg hurts.

It's his toy.

Bring your children with you.

Interrogative determiners - normally used at the start of questions about a noun, for example:

Whose coat is this?

Which house is it?

What university do you go to?

Demonstrative determiners - point to specific nouns and demonstrate how near or far they are, for example:

Those shoes (over there) are mine.

These shoes (here) are mine.

Quantifiers are used to give information about the number or amount of an item, for example:

Three cats sat on the fence.

There were many people there.

Some birds can't fly.
