Apostrophes for Possession Explained for Parents and Carers

Apostrophes are used to show possession – who something belongs to. For instance, in the following sentence, the pencil belongs to Sheba:

The pencil belonging to Sheba was on the table.

However, in English, we generally use the apostrophe to show possession:

Sheba’s pencil was on the table.

Singular Possessive

The general rule for showing possession is to add an apostrophe to the end of the word and then an s (‘s). Look at the following examples:

The Lion’s paws were big.
The cat’s whiskers twitched.
The dog’s tail wagged.

However, if a singular noun already ends in s, an apostrophe is placed after the s but we do not add a further s. For example:

The Octopus’ tentacles were long.
The Rhinoceros’ horn was sharp.
The Walrus’ teeth were sharp.

Plural Possessive

A lot of the confusion with children and apostrophe use comes with plural nouns. A plural noun means more than one, i.e. boys, cats, monkeys etc. When a plural noun ends with s we simply put the apostrophe after the s. For example:

The howls belonging to the wolves.

The wolves’ howls.
Apostrophes for Possession Explained for Parents and Carers

This can cause some confusion when we look at the following examples:

The boy’s socks were on the bench.
The boys’ socks were on the bench.

In the first example, there is one boy and his socks are on the bench. However, in the second example, the position of the apostrophe lets the reader know that there is more than one boy and all their socks are on the bench.

But, when a plural noun doesn’t end in s (like children), we add an apostrophe and s (‘s) to the end of the word. For example:

The books belonging to the children.
is written
The children’s books.

Its or It’s

Its and it’s are often confused when children are writing at home so this would be good to clarify with your children to ensure they use these words correctly in their independent writing. It’s is a contraction and is short for it is, whereas its is used to show possession. A good tip is to encourage your child to say the sentence out loud to check if it should be it is (it’s) or its. For example:

The dog was very excited – its tail didn’t stop wagging!

The dog was very excited – it’s tail didn’t stop wagging!

In the examples above, the first sentence is correct as it is showing possession so we use its. In the second example, we can’t say ‘it is tail didn’t stop wagging’ so we know we can’t use the contraction it’s.

Apostrophe Answers

We use apostrophes to show ownership or possession. Below, you will find a list of questions. Write an answer to each question using a singular noun with an apostrophe. Remember that to show possession you normally add an apostrophe and the letter s (‘s) to the end of the noun. However, be careful with nouns ending in an s as we only need to add an apostrophe after the final s. For example:

Whose cake had the best flavour?

Mary’s cake had the best flavour.

1. Whose fur is very silky?

2. Whose neck is very long?

3. Whose spaceship is faster than lightspeed?

4. Whose car has flashing blue lights?

5. Whose coat was lost?

6. Whose favourite stories are all about dragons?

1. The bike belonging to the man.

2. The doll belonging to the girl.

3. The dog belonging to the old woman.

4. The wings belonging to the unicorn flapped.

5. The horn belonging to the car beeped loudly.

6. The claws belonging to the tiger were sharp.

7. The light of the moon pierced through the clouds.

8. The fins belonging to the fish sparkled in the water.
Brain Break: Origami Lotus Flower

You will need:
A piece of paper (25cm x 25cm)

Tip:
The bigger the piece of paper, the bigger the lotus flower will be, making it easier to work with.

Instructions

1. First, fold the piece of paper in half by lifting the top right hand corner and matching it up with the bottom left hand corner. Flatten down to make a crease.

2. Next, unfold and repeat this instruction in the opposite direction (top left hand corner to match up with the bottom right hand corner). When you unfold your paper, you should see a fold in the shape of a cross.

3. After that, fold each corner of your square into the centre point of the paper (where the two fold lines intersect) and flatten down. Once finished, you should now have a smaller square.

4. Next, fold each corner into the centre again to make an even smaller square.

5. Repeat each corner fold again for a third time.

6. Now turn over the square and fold each square corner into the centre as you have done before.

7. Then, take each pointed corner of the square and fold it inwards (about $\frac{1}{4}$ of the corner). You should then see an irregular octagon.

8. Next, turn your lotus flower over and pull up your first petals. Do this by gently taking each of the corner folds you made, pulling them up and pushing them back over themselves the opposite way, underneath the flower. Keep repeating this until you have done this to every flap on each layer of this side of the flower.

9. Finally, turn your flower over and there you have it! Why not see if your flower will float in water? You could also make an even bigger lotus flower by changing the original paper size.

Correct the Apostrophe Mistakes
Professor Punctuation has lots of homework to mark but he doesn’t have enough time to complete it all. Please, be the teacher by helping him to mark the work. You must cross out the incorrect apostrophes and insert apostrophes for possession. You could use a coloured pen like a teacher when you are marking the work.

The farmers’ turnip had grown to a huge ‘size! He needed help so’ he called for all his friend’s. The farmers’ friend’s all made a line behind him. His’ wife held on to the farmers’ belt. A boy placed his han’ds around the wifes’ waist. Then a girl placed her hands on the boys’ yellow T-shirt. Behind the girl, the dogs ‘tail swung with excitement as he helped too. Finally, the cats claw’s held on to the dogs tail. They all pulled and tugged the farmers’ turnip. Eventually the huge turnip popped out of the ground. The farmers’ smile grew as’ he said thank you to all his helpers’.
